

Dedicated Development Center

Our proprietary software development center means an efficient and customizable outsourcing experience. We help you identify the right experts and help you remotely manage your dedicated engineering team as they develop, maintain, support and test your tech products.

Dedicated Development Center

How it Works

- ✔ Our Dedicated Development Center (DDC) means you have ready access to an extended, integrated and dedicated team of experts. These analysts, developers, designers and QA professionals support your company on your schedule, no matter where you are located. You get a team of trained resources that feels like an extension of your own company's talent who work in coordination with your onsite team.
- ✔ Start-ups to enterprise businesses have used our DDC model to manage software services remotely and reduce operating expenses, increase productivity, and give projects the agility to excel.

Dedicated Development Center

How it Works

- ✓ The DDC's multidisciplinary team allows for increased cost saving potential by offering a wide range of centralized services delivered on time – every time.
- ✓ You can also train our developers to use your tools and provide services according to your business hours and in keeping with your company culture. Understanding your product or brand helps build a meaningful long-term business relationship that translates to a healthier bottom line and positive work experience.
